COUNTERSTROKE IN SOLOMONS IS CRUSHED

U.S. Marines Aided By Reinforcements Repulse Japanese

Rear Admiral Robert B. Carney Reports That the Bougainville Operations Have Been Successful Beyond Fondest Expectations

LARGE NUMBER OF ENEMY INVADERS ARE SLAIN

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 11.—(P)—Powerful reinforcements of regular U. S. Army troops, landed without loss from warship-guarded transports, fought today alongside the spearhead of marines on Bougainville against badly-decimated Japanese.

The tide of jungle battle—a welter of tanks, mortars and camouflaged men contending in the roughest type of terrain—swung definitely toward the invaders of that last

NAZIS BATTLE DESPERATELY TO HOLD LINE

Americans Smash Forward Against German Counter-Thrusts to Storm Two Mountain Bases

TWO PORTS WRECKED

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Nov. 11.—(P)—Skilled American mountain fighters of the Fifth Army stormed up the heights and drove the enemy from two mountain bases, including Mount Rotondo, northwest of Mignano where the main inland road to Rome passes through the heavily fortified line that Nazi soldiers have been ordered to hold until New Year's, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Americans smashed forward against German counterthrusts to the peak of Mount Rotondo overlooking the broad valley leading to Cassino, eight miles north of Mignano.

Meanwhile, an air force statement disclosed that the Germans already were blasting and wrecking ships and port facilities at both the west and east coast ports of Leghorn and Pescara, either in preparation for evacuation of those places or in fear of their seizure by Allied amphibious forces.

Simultaneously, the Eighth Army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, fighting through snowstorms in the Apennines, advanced five miles and captured Roniero, 10 miles northwest of Isernia and five miles south of Castel Di Sangro on an important trans-peninsular highway.

Radio France at Algiers said in a broadcast that Cassino, eight miles north of Mignano on the main inland road to Rome, had been encircled by Allied forces during the past 24 hours.

In the ground fighting, forward elements of the Eighth Army crossed the Sangro river and won new positions on both sides of the river near the Adriatic coast. The Fifth Army captured important heights in the west.

Both armies battled in extremely bad weather against increasing stiffening German opposition, the communiqué said.

Heavy bombers again attacked the ballbearing works at Villa Perosa, near Turin in northern Italy, bombing only the previous day.

Long range bombers also flew to the Alps to attack a railway bridge and yards at Bolzano, on the railway to Brenner Pass.

American Flying Fortresses from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command rained explosives yesterday on the freight yards, locomotive sheds and numerous other installations at Bolzano in the Alps on the route through Brenner Pass.

All the RAF's planes returned safely from Modane at the end of the seven and a half mile long tunnel. This was the second attack in eight weeks on Modane by British-based air forces.

Armistice Day Exercises Impressive

Herbert D. Harris Delivers Inspiring Address Before Crowd of 200 at the Library Theatre

STIFF FIGHT STILL AHEAD SPEAKER SAYS

Memories of the Armistice signed 25 years ago today were recalled vividly to mind in an address given at the community Armistice Day services at Warren's Library Theatre at 11 o'clock this morning.

The speaker was Herbert D. Harris, his audience some 200 members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and their friends. On the stage, patriotically decorated with flags of the two organizations, were members of the High School band under direction of Harry Summers.

Officers of the two Posts conducted the ritual in memory of the day which means so much to veterans of World War I, with invocation by William Duncan, chaplain of the American Legion.

Mr. Harris reminded his audience of the feeling of joy and relief shared by all soldiers when the news of the Armistice was flashed through the trenches and fox holes of France. He recounted the sudden calm which settled over a country torn and ravaged by four years of war. He pictured the disappearance of fear and the feeling of peace which occupied the hearts of the families of the men then in service.

Turning to the present war which is raging throughout the whole world he told his hearers that while the news is good there is still a stiff fight ahead with many battles to be lost as well as won.

In closing, he called for a "calm, unrelenting determination to see this war through and then see that we so plan for the future that the jobs that lie ahead will be done in such a fashion that war will no longer plunge civilization into another turmoil such as this."

Officers of the two patriotic organizations occupied places on the platform and took part in the ritual of the American Legion which was used. Commander Glenn E. Stone of the American Legion, and Leo Weidert of the Veterans of Foreign Wars opened the services. Clarence Agren and Harry Nelson of the Legion and Russell Allen of the V. F. W. also had part in the services.

Commander Stone called to the attention of the American Legion by the dinner, to be followed by a dance, which will be held at the Legion Home this evening. He urged all members of the Legion and Auxiliary to attend and issued a special invitation to men in service to be present as guests of the Legion.

"We will be able to make available within our present reserves enough oil to finish this global war," Ickes said, "but we couldn't possibly oil another war of this size."

A number of United States oil companies have established themselves in the foreign oil business, Ickes continued, obtaining rights to reserves, constructing, drilling and refining facilities, and setting up worldwide distribution facilities.

"This has been done entirely as a result of private initiative with government extending its good offices," Ickes said.

F. B. I. Ordered To Probe Disturbances

Tulelake, Calif., Nov. 11.—(P)—Two national investigations were focused today on the Tulelake segregation center where witnesses testified the 16,000 disloyal Japanese internees had been making bombs and knives.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation was ordered by Attorney General Francis Biddle to begin an immediate study of last week's disturbances, and Rep. Claude E. Riffe (D-Calif.) said he would ask the Dies committee for a "full and formal" probe of the Tule Lake situation as it existed under control of the War Relocation Authority.

A new disturbance occurred at the center yesterday.

The last 270 Japanese of proved loyalty to the United States were removed from the Tulelake by train last night and sent to War Relocation camps in Utah, Idaho, Colorado and Arkansas.

The council meets today to fill the two jobs and to adopt rules of procedure.

Meanwhile, the committee on agenda approved a long list of subjects to be discussed by the council. Among them were:

The scope of UNRRA's activities, the council's relations with governments and inter-governmental agencies, finance policies, procedures for ascertaining and meeting deficits in supplies, distribution of relief, health and medical care, and policies for assistance to "displaced persons," such as evacuees, prisoners and refugees.

Little Steel Formula Will Be Continued

Board Chairman Insists It Cannot and Will Not Be Discarded

POSITION CLEARED UP

B. JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—Labor was warned today that the War Labor Board (WLB) still stands by the Little Steel formula, believes that it cannot discard it, and wouldn't discard it if it could.

This notice came from William H. Davis, chairman of the WLB, and apparently it was intended to clear up the board's position in view of the recent wage hike allowed the coal miners.

I was directed specifically at the UO's United Steel Workers who want to abolish the so-called formula which in the interest of anti-inflation permits wage increases only up to 15 percent of late 1941 levels.

The WLB chairman said the average American worker had received more than the 15 percent increase over his straight time hourly earnings of January, 1941, but that some groups of white-collar workers had not received the 15 percent allowed by the Little Steel formula. He said the board can not do anything for those people as individuals, but if they applied as groups their cases would be handled.

FAMED FLAGSHIP NOW IN PERMANENT BERTH

Erie, Nov. 11.—(P)—Commodore Oliver H. Perry's famed flagship, Niagara, which bogged down in the mud in a voyage a month ago, yesterday was successfully towed across the bay from the peninsula in a snowstorm and came to rest in a permanent berth at the foot of State street.

Officials here to complete arrangements this week for opening the ship to public inspection. Later the State Historical Society plans to provide a park about the vessel.

TWO BELIEVED DEAD IN RARITAN ACCIDENT

Metuchen, N. J., Nov. 11.—(P)—What may be the remains of two bodies has been removed from the debris of the explosions and fire at the army's Raritan Arsenal, and two persons have been reported missing, the army's Eastern Defense Command announced last night in New York.

Three workmen were injured in the blasts Tuesday, and a state trooper was critically injured in a traffic accident enroute to the scene.

Bricker's Entry In GOP Race May Start General Scramble

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—The 1944 presidential race had its first public entry today—the name of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for the Republican nomination—and political observers looked for the recent elections to encourage others so to declare themselves.

Bricker's announcement in Chicago yesterday that he would enter Ohio's presidential primary May 9 was the first such declaration to come from a dozen possible candidates mentioned in both parties and the first from among the three most prominently discussed Republican possibilities.

The other two Republicans are Wendell L. Willkie and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Willkie, who has been pictured as confident of winning another nomination in 1944, would not comment on the Bricker move, but his supporters here did not appear to be worried. They said he even had strength in Bricker's own backyard. Dewey men contended that the New York governor is still the leading man for the nomination despite his repeated assertion that he will not be a candidate. They believe Dewey would not decline a "draft" nomination in event of a deadlocked convention.

Three others besides President Roosevelt have been mentioned for the Democratic nomination, although most politicians feel now that the chief executive will be a fourth term candidate. The three are Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, put forward by Senator Johnson (D-Colo.); Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who also has supporters booming him in Louisiana and South Carolina; and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Hull Is Acclaimed Hero In Capital

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—Cordell Hull, who startled the world with the success of his mission to Moscow, was startled himself today. He returned to Washington to find that he was a hero.

The 72-year-old secretary of state stepped off a plane late yesterday and appeared astonished to see President Roosevelt and other high dignitaries waiting to give him an accolade.

"We'll give you the keys to the city," said Mr. Roosevelt with a grin.

The secretary, who signed the war and postwar pacts with Britain's foreign minister, Anthony Eden, and Soviet Russia's Molotov, drove with the president to the White House where he discussed details that could be taken up only in private.

RED FORCES DRIVE AHEAD IN UKRAINE

SNOWS HAMPER DRIVE

London, Nov. 11.—(P)—Russian forces slogging through the wet snows of the western Ukraine toward Poland and Rumania were pushing forward with far superior forces," the German communiqué said today.

Berlin broadcasts pictured the whole Russian front from the invested Crimea to the frozen fields around Nevel ablaze with heavy Soviet offensives.

A violent tank battle was reported near the White Russian rail center of Gomel, where Berlin said the Russian attacked "with numerous rifle divisions, masses of tanks and planes" in an attempt to break a narrow sector of the front along the Sozh river, tributary of the Dnieper. The Germans said they destroyed 217 tanks.

Violent Russian attacks in force also were reported by Berlin north of the Dnieper bend iron center of Krivoy Rog, northwest of Chernigov above Kiev, and northwest of Smolensk. By German account, the Russian firmly held the initiative in all these engagements but the Nazis insisted they had repelled all the thrusts. The Germans said they were counter-attacking successfully southwest of Kiev.

Plagued by rain, snow and fog the approaching Russian winter, and reeling under the blows the Russian forces, the Nazis were abandoning huge stores of food and war material in their flight, a soviet communiqué declared. The bulletin said that the Russians are fanning out on a 70-mile arc from Kiev, in its possession since last Saturday.

South of Kiev, Red Army columns were beyond Vasilev, captured yesterday, and were less than 20 miles northeast of the rail city of Byelaya Tserkov, Moscow (Turn to Page Nine)

President Makes Report On Lend-Lease Plan In Reverse

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—Congress received from President Roosevelt today a report that the British commonwealth, through last June, had contributed $1,174,900,000 "to the defense of the United States" through lend-lease in reverse.

The help from the empire, in reciprocity for upwards of $5,500,000,000 in lend-lease supplies from the United States, covered such varied items as corn-on-the-cob and socks, plane repair shops and boxing gloves.

Mos. of it came from the British Isles, whose total was $871,000,000. Airports, barracks, hospitals and similar facilities for American air and land forces accounted for $371,000,000 of Britain's share, goods and services for $331,000,000 and shipping for $169,000,000.

Australia helped out to a total of $196,000,000, New Zealand provided $51,000,000 in reverse lend-lease and India $56,900,000. Canada never has received lend-lease assistance from this country, pay cash for all war supplies obtained here.

The analysis of reverse lend-lease, Mr. Roosevelt said, "emphasizes the contribution which the British commonwealth has made to the defense of the United States" while taking its place on the battlefronts.

The figures represent an incomplete accounting.

Legion Officer Talks At Arlington

Arlington, Va., Nov. 11.—(P)—Standing by the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, National Commander Warren H. A. Therton of the American Legion urged the nation today to hold back the forces of aggression in the future by brandishing a big stick.

"The Legion urges that the American people determine to carry full insurance against the future war by being ready at all times to counter any possible threat," Therton asserted in an Armistice Day speech at ceremonies attended by President Roosevelt in the Arlington National cemetery, resting place of warrior dead.

"This can be done only if our young men are given military training as part of their education, and only if there is always on hand the tools with which that training can be used to discourage those who might wish to make war."

Thieves Busy At Cottages In Forest Co.

Officers have been investigating robberies in Forest county during the past couple of weeks, but as yet no arrests have been made. Last Friday night the Kunselman Garage, on Elm street, Tionesta, was broken into and recapped tires, change from the cash register and a quantity of gasoline coupons were taken. No clues were left and the police have been baffled.

Reports have also been received that the raids on cottages in the Tionesta section have again commenced. A cottage of John Herron, Allegheny county politician, at Clarington on the Clarion river was raided. The thieves evidently had a truck as they took electrical equipment from the kitchen, a mattress, a wicker chair, canned goods and other articles. The cottage was a fine one and was well and comfortably equipped.

Sheriff Bruce Hagerty, of Tionesta, has investigated aided by state police, but no arrests have been made. Some clues have been unearthed in the cottage robbery.

Joe Warren Sees Christmas Cheer At Low Ebb This Year

Old Joe Warren hitched up his chair, aimed at the box of sawdust and ejaculated: "Well, didja ever think you would ever live to see the whiskey all drunk up? I never did. Back in the days when every farmer had a still, raised a crop of rye and made his own we had some pretty fair drinkin' liquor. One or two swigs of that would make a fellow fight and sing and when you took a snort you took it outta the tin dipper and wiped your mouth with the back of your hand. The next morning you didn't wake up with a headache, inflammation of the bowels and a tin ear. In the old war when we blazed h—l out of the Johnny Bulls we gave the boys a snort or two and just turned them loose and let the old opadlock do the rest. It did."

"An' I see they are going to ration liquor. That should solve the problem for the bootleggers. They have sort of been on the anxious seat for a time wondering if they should really get out the stills, the mash barrels and go to work. Guess this news today will sort o' give them the inspiration to start makin' up a batch or two for the holidays."

"For weeks past I have felt sorry for the clerks in the liquor stores. Everybody sort of felt they were to blame for the shortage. Many a bird with a bit of foldin' money and a thirst accused the clerks of playin' favorites and holding back the best stuff for their friends. The boys couldn't help themselves. There was just so much stuff there and when it was gone the pinochle game started."

"There should be plenty of rum coming along with a goodly mess of gin. The rum comes from the West Indies and if you remember rightly Uncle Sammy sort of subsidized the rum in Haiti and if you don't get as many colasses cookies as you once did just blame it on the rum. Rum is made from molasses and you just can't have cookies and rum too. Ang gin? Gosh the folks in Mexico and Porto Rica are busy as bees making gin. Lot o' quantity and darned little quality I say in that stuff. But it won't be long until the bath tubs are working again. Why I'm predictin' there won't be a ring left on a bath tub in the country in a few months. All at off with home made gin."

"We're gonna get a fifth and a pint of liquor for the holidays but we will be able to get some rum and gin I'll betcha. So our Thomas and Jeremiah will come through just as good as usual I'm thinkin'. Rum and coke have been a happy combination for months passed and a lot of folks have begun to like it. It packs more wallop than 'pistol packin' mama' and when she gets a few snorts of that she just won't lay that pistol down."

So that is the outlook for rationing. News from Harrisburg is that next Monday the rationing will begin and this afternoon Fred Gelder will break the news of just how it's all going to operate. With no whiskey made for over a year the outlook for hilarity is slim.

You May Never Have To Take Another Laxative

Most constipated people might be as regular as clockwork—if they would only quit worrying—stop being nervous—take more exercise—watch their diet—and get up mornings an hour or so earlier to give bowels time to act. But who can or wants to do all that?

So—the next best thing is to keep the bowels working as regularly and comfortably as we can—and that's where good old Espasol comes in. Why? Because you may take Espasol at night and expect results in the morning when you get up without waiting around—because they do not move the bowels so violently as to leave you feeling weak and wasted.

AND because they help give the grand, comfortable, satisfying type of movement that makes the spirit soar—and what sour, constipated person could ask for more! Get Espasol at your drugist today and take as directed, 25¢.

G-GIRL

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

Chapter 22

THE War Workers' clubhouse proved to be a godsend to War Commission employee 16,984, alias Sally Thayer. Georgia Hammond made good her threat and talked Sally into a spot on the committee which meant little glory and plenty of hard work. But it was just the right prescription for a girl with a broken heart.

In place of cocktails and soft lights and good dance music, the setting for Sally's evenings now was the clubhouse kitchen, where she turned out mountains of sandwiches and washed an endless succession of dirty dishes. Sally figured if the Senator's wife could do it, so could she.

She went back to her regular schedule at Emergency Hospital, too. She'd felt guilty about the way she'd let the work there lapse after she had met Ted. She had never given the hospital a second thought if she could see Ted on those evenings when she had signed up for duty. But now, with a tremendous rush of science, she went faithfully back to work. The floor nurse raised her eyebrows when she reappeared one day in late July. "That's what they all do," she said sardonically. "I suppose next you'll leave for your summer vacation. Nice work, if you can get it."

Sally hadn't given vacations a thought. This was wartime, and as far as she was concerned—and she was sure, Langhorne too—the office workers ought to be able to take it if the soldiers could.

BUT in spite of the work, and the heavy schedule that Sally laid out for herself, there was one bad hour every day when Sally found it hard to put Ted completely out of her mind. That was the time when her work at the office was over for the day. Try as she would not to think about him, she'd remember his smile, the firm clasp of his hand as they walked slowly through the crowded streets, the tender teasing tone of his voice when he'd say, "Doing anything to-night, lady?" What Ted thought, what he liked, what Sally thought he would like her to be like, had filled her mind so completely that sometimes she would forget she would never see him again. Then when she remembered that Ted could now be nothing more than a memory, the ache in her heart would be almost unendurable.

But as the summer days moved along slowly on a wave of blistering heat unbroken even by a thunder shower, the time eventually came when Sally could think of Ted without a simultaneous sharp thrust of pain. At first she used to dream wild, impossible dreams at night in which a reformed but still charming Ted begged her to forgive him. Then even her mind was too tired out to weave those nightly fantasies, and Sally slept peacefully once more.

But the battle to forget Ted left its mark on her. She was more quiet than she used to be. Some of the spontaneity that Mr. Chase had noted, that set Sally apart from the group, had gone.

SOMETIMES she wished desperately she could tell Peter what had happened. Perhaps this time he wouldn't have been a sympathetic listener, but he had been on other occasions that Sally felt it would have been an immense relief to pour out the whole sad story. But nobody with any grain of pride could call up a man who hadn't called her and say, "Look, I'm not in love any more. Wouldn't you like to take me out?"

Fate could have been helpful and pushed Peter in her path again. But fate wasn't doing Sally any good turns these days, evidently having decided she'd had more than her share of luck, and now it was time someone else got a break. Sally never saw Peter at the hospital. Finally she got up nerve enough to ask the floor nurse casually what had happened to him.

"Oh, he's our fair-haired boy right now. The hospital lent him to the Navy to do some special work on blood plasma. He's been all over the country visiting Navy hospitals. But he's due back in September—unless the Navy wants to keep him."

Sally was so surprised she could only gasp "Oh!" The nurse stared at her.

"Don't tell me you have a personal interest in his career!"

Sally hastened to set her straight. "Oh heavens, no. But I understood the Army had rejected him for service, so I'm surprised to hear about this Navy job."

The nurse still eyed her skeptically. "He's in a special category on this. Limited service in the medical corps. I guess the doctor has what it takes. I'll never forget that bright-eyed little number he operated on for appendicitis. She came out of the ether yelling 'Oh Peter, darling, where are you?' Dr. Craig swore he didn't even know her, but she certainly had her eye on him."

Sally was annoyed. What gossip places hospitals were. An attractive man didn't have a chance. The walls were buzzing with some brand of story, real or fictitious, all the time. She said severely, "Dr. Craig seems to be able to take care of himself very well."

COMPREHENSION dawned in the nurse's eyes. "Oh-oh, I remember now. You and Dr. Craig had your pictures in the paper, didn't you, after that accident. I'd forgotten it was you. Say, those pictures certainly gave the Nurse's Aide program a boost, believe it or not. Why, that day the training supervisor had called all day long for volunteers who wanted to sign up right off. But they all asked if they could be assigned to Emergency, so the supervisor caught on. I could disillusion them fast. Lot of good it's done me to assist Dr. Craig. I put in all last summer up there in that suffocating operating room, but I'll bet you he doesn't even know my name. Of course in your case," the nurse raised her eyebrows knowingly, "it might be different."

Sally refused to rise for the bait. "I imagine he is very popular. These men with a sarcastic comeback always are for some reason." The telephone buzzed, and Sally walked away while the nurse answered it, grateful for the interruption. I certainly got myself in deep there, she thought. But in spite of the nurse's curiosity, she was glad to know what had happened to Peter. Without wishing the Navy any hard luck, she hoped he would be back in the hospital.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Today we know that the war which ended 25 years ago is still going on. We can see more clearly than ever, in the perspective that a quarter century lends, that the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, was just that. We can fit together the various eruptions—boundary disputes, revolution, aggression, civil war—that disturbed the uneasy surface of that armistice until, four years ago, the war broke out again with renewed ferocity.

Seen in this perspective, all the tears, the profound relief, the hysterical joy, the prayerful thanksgiving of Nov. 11, 1918, may seem a little pathetic. But they were sincere and admirable then. We went to war in 1917 on a wave of idealism. We fought for slogans and believed in them: a war to end war and a world safe for democracy. The idealism was more than public emotion. It was the policy of our government. Idealism moved a president to try to persuade us into the League of Nations. We did not follow, and the League went on without us—accomplishing many things, failing utterly in the crises.

But we tried to do our best for world peace. We were generous and solicitous. We were kind to our enemies. We were patient with our recent Allies when they called us Uncle Shylock. We called disarmament conferences, and proposed plans outside the League for enduring peace.

This country and its former Allies condemned war as an international policy. The world had learned its lesson in 1914-1918; it knew that war was brutal and unfathomable. France sat behind her mountains and her Maginot Line and England sat behind her Channel, loathing war so much that they would not look while Germany and Italy prepared for it at home, and rehearsed it in Ethiopia and Spain. We sat between our oceans, thinking that if we hated war hard enough, it would not come.

The next Armistice Day will not find us in a 1918 mood. Perhaps we shall be even more truly thankful, but we shall certainly be less emotional. The American mind today is cynical, compared with that of 25 years ago. And that is all to the good. Next Armistice Day we shall know that the present conflict was only a dreadful, bloody, devastating preliminary to another attempt to build a structure for enduring peace.

We are beginning now, with greater realism and greater wisdom, to draw plans for that structure. This time we know that peace cannot be placed within a shrine, but must be guarded by a stout fortress. It must be built to withstand the problems and differences that will strain the present alliance of fighting nations. We know, all of us, that the end of the shooting and bombing will not mean the return of tranquility. Already old quarrels and new disputes are breaking above the surface of the general sea of troubles. And they will not grow less intense when the fighting stops.

Today we possess the knowledge, painfully acquired, of 25 years' short-sightedness and mistakes. It is bitter knowledge. But because we have it, it may be that 25 years after the next Armistice Day we shall have done a better job.

CALL IT OLEO

Whatever decision the House of Representatives may reach in the butter-oleomargarine controversy, there is one aspect of the situation that probably will remain as confused as ever. That is the problem of how to pronounce margarine.

Margarine is derived (that is, the word, not the product) from the Latin margarita, meaning pearl, which in turn stems from the Greek margarion, also meaning pearl. Both root words are pronounced with a hard g, as in Margaret, not a soft one, as in Marjorie. Yet almost all of us pronounce it as if it were spelled with a j.

Dictionaries held out for a long time against public pressure. But the latest edition of the Merriam-Webster only adds to the confusion. It gives the word margarin, which is a concoction of fats and greases, as being pronounced with a hard g. But when it adds a final e to the word, and specifies in the definition that the margarin is the kind you spread on bread, then it gives two choices of pronunciation, with the soft g first.

Our own research, carried out with an expenditure of time all out of proportion to the subject's importance, has discovered no precedent for a soft g preceding an a. Reports from the House butter-margarine committee hearings offer no solution, but do suggest a compromise. It seems that all congressmen and some oleomargarine experts use the popular, or soft g, pronunciation. Purists, especially those from the OPA, bravely give it the hard g as in Margaret.

But the butter men scornfully refer to the rival spread as oleo. In fact, when they want to be particularly derisive, they have been heard to refer to the product as oley.

ARMISTICE-1918

Across the 25-year span from November, 1918, to November, 1943, the U. S. has seen war, prosperity, depression, the laxity of peacetime, then war again and now attack. Today our observance of Armistice Day is a bitter reminder that the great World War did not end in 1918, and presents an opportunity to resolve that this conflict be brought to a permanent conclusion.

UNKNOWN

By CASSIE MONCURE LYNE

(Inspired Twenty years ago on the occasion of the burial of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington Cemetery)

On Armistice Day, next Friday, at Arlington National Cemetery, an unknown soldier will be buried with highest military honors, General Pershing officiating, as typical of the gratitude felt by the country to the memory of all who made the supreme sacrifice. Memory of the unknown heroes was the inspiration of these verses:

Somebody's darling—perhaps was he,

This "unknown" lad who has "Gone With

Perhaps he prayed at some mother's knee,
Little else matters. He did his best.

"Unk wn"—Name, number, blotted away—

"What" in a name?"—did the bare not ask?

Since he the part of Hero did play,
Little else matters. He ended the task.

Young, fearless, yet willing to die—

He went in search of the Holy Grail,

Battled for right with standard high
Little else matters. He did not fail!

Gladly would fathers claim him as son,

Proud of us' action to share their name

For Heaven records him now, "Well done!"
Little else matters—a bauble is fane!

"Unknown"—but not "unhonored" is he,

Just a Private mowed down in the ranks,

Yet the immortals might envious be,
To witness today th Nation's thanks.

Washington in Wartime

(First Of Two Articles)

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — When all is said and done, it may be the prisoners of war and particularly the German prisoners of war who will save this country from a more drastic pulpwood shortage. On the surface, that may seem a far-fetched prediction, but the Forest Service is saying here now that if certain prejudices can be broken down (and it appears that they can) the United States can avoid that margin for error which would deprive us of the minimum of newspaper, magazine, pamphlet and writing paper.

The background of the story must be told first. On July 1, the War Production Board turned over to the Forest Service $1,000,000 with the directive: "Produce more timber or else." It was decided that this development program should be confined to lumber producing states east of the Great Plains. That includes 11 southern states; the Lake States, including Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri as well as those bordering on the Lakes farther west; and the eastern states, which include Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Within the Forest Service, the program was divided into three parts: logging, milling and labor. In charge of the last was placed a two-fisted, experienced, comparatively young forester, Donald M. Rochester, the Forest Service's chief training officer. Don looks like he might have once played halfback for his native Michigan football team, but making holes in yesterday's Minnesota line would have been child's play to bucking the play they called for him this time. The lumber industry has been out of labor for months and still is losing steadily. Surveying the whole field, Rochester could find only two possible sources of new labor—a negligible amount which could be imported from the Caribbean and Mexico and that in the Army prison camps. Since the former was almost completely spoken for, Rochester decided to go to work on the prisoners of war.

HE FIRST discovered that by the terms of the Geneva conference, we cannot use prisoners of war in hazardous industries. Logging, he found, was out completely, since it is listed as the most hazardous industry on the books. He did find, however, that prisoners of war could be employed in the cutting of pulpwood forests and in certain non-hazardous mill jobs.

Then he found that the lumber industry, in spite of its manpower shortages, was not inclined to take on prisoner-of-war labor. And although about one-fourth of our 140,000 prisoners of war already in camps in this country are German and Italian farm boys who know how to swing an ax, practically none was experienced in timber cutting or milling.

Rochester was finally told by Col. I. B. Summers, of the provost marshal's general office to use whatever prisoner-of-war labor he could solicit and train. That was enough. As a result, that portion of our pulpwood and non-hazardous mill industry workers who spell the difference between something and nothing probably soon will be hacking away at our pulpwood forests and working around some of the 45,000 sawmills that take care of the defined area.

Warren Boy Transferred By Tex. Company

It will interest many friends in Warren to learn that Fred McCoy, who went to Beacon, N. Y., in the interests of the Texas Company in 1933, has been transferred to the New York office of the same firm. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. McCoy, 416 Hickory street.

Reporting a stag dinner party given for him by fellow-employees, the Beacon News says: "He will be missed in the community as a whole, being an ardent worker in many causes that absorbed his interest. He is a past president of the Beacon Theatre Guild, secretary of the Russian War Relief, member of the Community Chest, Southern Dutchess Country Club and the Southern Dutchess Singers. He was an active worker at St. John's church."

Along with best wishes for his future success, expressed at the above gathering, Mr. McCoy was presented with a gold wrist watch by Allen V. Ritchie, superintendent of the Beacon division of Texas.

Berlin, pastor, Arthur Olson superintendent of the Sunday school, Max Hoy, representing the young people, Everett Landin the choir, Albert Johnson the congregation. Needlework Guild Collection and Tea Friday Recalls Unit's Earlier Days

Discussion of the annual Needlework Guild garment collection and tea at the Woman's Club from three until five o'clock tomorrow afternoon recalls that the Warren Branch was organized 34 years ago this fall at the home of Mrs. Robert Hall.

The first meeting was held October 28, 1909, with Mrs. William Spencer, of Erie, as organizer. Initial officers chosen by the group were Mrs. W. H. Smith, president; Miss Kate Winger, secretary; Mrs. E. A. Steber, treasurer. Of the 17 persons present, these 14 volunteered their services as directors: Mrs. M. Guth, Mrs. Edward Wetmore, Mrs. C. W. Stone, Miss Messner, Mrs. Charles Jamieson, Mrs. J. O. Parnlee, Mrs. A. D. Wood, Mrs. Rieg, Mrs. Ralph Stone, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. M. Waters, Miss Winger, Mrs. Steber and Mrs. Jones.

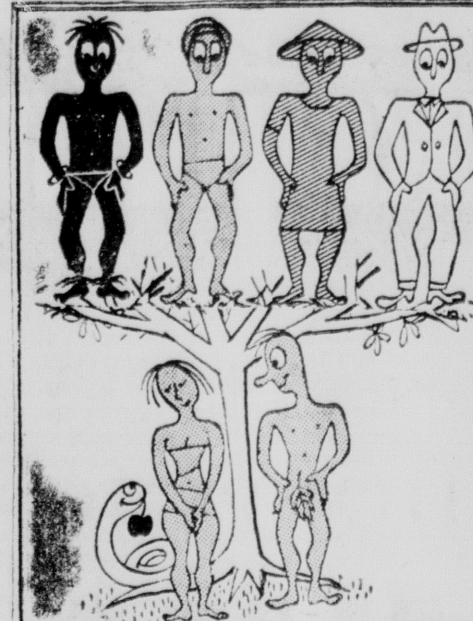

The initial collection three weeks later netted 477 new articles and the following year a total of 508 new items was turned in. In 1911, Mrs. Ralph Stone was elected president, with Mrs. A. D. Wood as vice president, Miss Winger and Mrs. Steber renamed. The next year, Mrs. W. L. MacGowan was added as a vice president for the only change in officers and, in 1913, Mrs. A. A. Printz became president. Mrs. Wood and Mrs. MacGowan were continued in office. Mrs. Bishop Yates was chosen secretary and Mrs. Ralph Stone took up the duties of treasurer. That year's collection brought in 600 articles and members voted $25 for purchase of materials with which to make garments to be sent to Belgian sufferers.

The branch has seen many changes in the intervening years and has grown to a directorship of nearly 50. Of the 1,376 garments distributed last year, the Children's Aid Society of Warren County received 336; the Visiting Nursing Association of Warren borough and Warren county, 318 each; the Warren Relief Association, 364; special cases, 10; maternity hospital, 28, and Salvation Army 2.

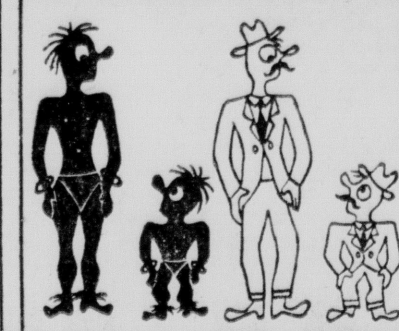

Members and directors may designate the charity which is to receive membership gifts and, since there is an ever-growing need for all such articles, it is hoped that tomorrow's collection may top all previous records.

Exploding Racial Superiority

The story of Adam and Eve told the same truth science shows today: All peoples on earth are a single family, have a single origin.

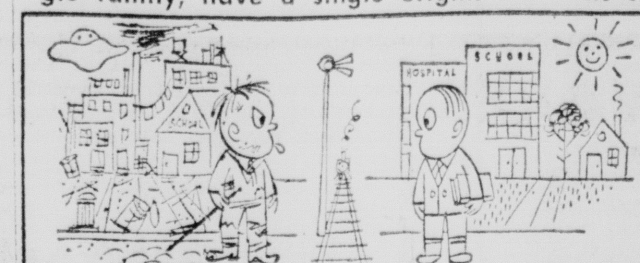

AP Features
HERE are some facts about races—facts established by science that prove the falsehood of the Nazi doctrines of "race purity." With the illustrations by Reinhardt, they are from the pamphlet "The Races of Mankind," written by Professor Ruth Benedict and Dr. Gene Weltfish of the department of anthropology, Columbia University, and published by the Public Affairs Committee, Inc., of New York.

These are tall and short men in all colors. Science can't tell from a brain to what people its owner belonged.

People are gentle or warlike depending on their training. The Japs once preferred to write poetry.

With better home, school, medical care, "Johnny" could have been "Jimmy." Gifted children turn up among Negroes, Orientals.

Freedom from fear is urged as the way to cure race prejudice, with Americans urged to work for race equality.

HOME ECONOMICS EXTENSION NEWS

Thelma Prendergast

WELL GROOMED HANDS KEEP UP APPEARANCE

In the interest of good grooming, to say nothing of water smoothness for such indoor activity as sewing every woman should give some care to her hands, believes Mrs. Thelma Prendergast, home economics extension representative, Warren county. With most of the heavy work of the field and garden finished, it will be easier to keep hands in good condition.

A hand lotion or cold cream is essential to restore oil to the skin. Keep a bottle of lotion on the kitchen shelf for frequent use. For hard water, use a hardwater soap or one containing extra oil. Lardlin, the oil from sheep's wool, is used in soap and hand lotion and is particularly good for the skin.

Wear old gloves while you sweep or sweep or dust to protect your hands, suggests Mrs. Prendergast. If you apply cream or lotion before putting on the gloves, so much the better. It is possible to buy work gloves which have been softened with cold cream to help keep the hands soft. While doing rough work there are protective creams to apply which form a film over the skin. The film comes off with washing.

A manicure to be good does not need to be professional. Take your time, and start shaping the nails with an emery board, following the natural curve of the fingertips. Soak the fingers in warm soapy water and scrub with a nail brush. Use an orangewood stick to clean the nails. Wrap a bit of cotton around the blunt end of the stick, dip in cuticle oil and gently push back the cuticle. Wash the nails, pushing back the cuticle to push back the cuticle whenever with a towel. It's a good practice the hands are washed. Liquid or paste polish may be applied. If paste polish is used, give the nails a good buffing or rub them on a dry bath towel.

If your hands are stiff or tense try shaking your arms with the hands hanging limp, or do finger exercises on the kitchen table or on the piano.

Mohr Heads Seal Drive In This County

Homer M. Mohr has again been appointed chairman of the Christmas Seal campaign of the Warren County Tuberculosis Society, according to announcement made today by H. M. Miller, president.

In accepting the appointment, Mr. Mohr stated that "during the last year the program of the Warren County Tuberculosis Society has been greatly expanded to meet the requirements of a wartime anti-tuberculosis campaign. While war has always increased tuberculosis, we still have hopes through our intensified campaign that no consequential or lasting rise will occur in this country."

"The Warren County Tuberculosis Society has the biggest job in its history in 1944 and can do it only if the seal sale is a success, since this sale brings in the only funds of the society."

Girl Scouts of the Warren County Council have again volunteered to assist in preparing the Seal Sale letters which will be sent out Thanksgiving week.

Any other organization wishing to volunteer its services is asked to get in touch with Mr. Mohr by calling 48.

BULLDOZERS FRONT AND CENTER

When the American Army moves it does things in the American way. At Pesto, Italy, 25 miles South of Naples the bulldozers moved in with the first waves of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's invading Fifth Army. Here is shown one of them building a road right down to the landing beach. The War Bonds you buy are helping build that road that is leading to Berlin and Tokio.

Irish-Wildcat Game Billed As Duel Between Star Passers

By BUCKY O'CONNOR

Chicago, Nov. 11.—(P)—That fellow on the spot is Otto Graham, 190 pound halfback of the Northwestern Wildcats, who is nearing the close of a brilliant three-year career as one of the greatest passers in Western Conference history.

Otto and his mates tangle with the nation's No. 1 touchdown machine, Notre Dame, next Saturday at Evanston. He's on the spot because the clash, 23rd in a series dating back to 1889, is being billed as a passing duel between him and Johnny Lujack, the freshman sensation who stepped right into Angelo Bertelli's shoes and found a perfect fit.

Comparatively speaking, Graham's effort will be pretty much a solo effort, while the Notre Dame youngster will have a heap of help.

Frank Leahy's 18-year-old quarterback find will have a supporting cast which has rolled up a gain of 3,284 yards in its seven consecutive triumphs, topping the nation with an average of 479.1 yards per contest. In their march toward the national championship the Irish have piled up 287 points to their opponents' 31.

Only Bill Daley of Michigan has scored on the ground against the first string Notre Dame line. He did it once.

With the return of the ailing Julie Rykovich at halfback and last Saturday's unveiling of another frosh star, Bob Kelly, the Irish coast along with the greatest collection of ball carriers in the country.

Top Prices Paid At Auction of Horses

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—(P)—Eddie D., a two-minute pacer consigned by Mrs. Francis Dodge Johnson, of Rochester, Mich., topped a list of more than 60 harness racing horses up for sale today at final auctions of the Standard Bred Horse Sale Company.

The chestnut horse is the first pacer of its speed to go on the market in recent years, sale officials said.

Also put on the auction block were seven horses owned by the estate of Homer B. Biery, of Butler, including Stonedrive Direct, holder of the world's four-heat race record on half-mile tracks.

Yesterday, an average price of $1,878 for a consignment from the village farm, of Langhorne, broke all previous records for sale of a single consignment. The previous high was $1,815 paid at Lexington, Ky., earlier this year for 72 yearlings consigned by the Walnut Hall Farm of Lexington.

Three Games Scheduled For the Air Saturday

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

New York, Nov. 11.—(P)—Three games on four networks is the football fare for Saturday as the season draws near the close. Thus two chains, the BLU and MBS, will be doing the same contest, Notre Dame vs. Northwestern at Evanston, Ill.

The other games are divided: CBS Army vs. Sampson Naval Training at West Point and NBC Tulane vs. Georgia Tech at New Orleans.

Sewell Is Rejected For Army Service

Pittsburgh, Nov. 11.—(P)—Rip Sewell, whose parachute pitch won 21 games for the Pittsburgh Pirates this year, was rejected in his final examination for military service yesterday at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Two other outstanding Pirate pitchers, Max Butcher and Johnny Gee, were turned down previously.

But the Bucco management isn't counting chickens yet on its 1944 hurling staff—both Wally Hebert, 35, who has two daughters, and Hank Gornicki, 28, are classified 1-A.

RATION SUSPENSION OF PRO IS MODIFIED

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—(P)—Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot golfer, has been granted a modification of the suspension of his gasoline allotment for the duration by his ration board.

The Office of Price Administration appeals committee yesterday ordered suspension of his A ration for eight months and his B ration for four. He was accused of using gasoline in excess of his rations on exhibition tours of army camps.

Grid Gosh!

Ike and Bob Will Settle Feud Soon

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—(P)—That feud of words between Bob Montgomery, holder of the lightweight boxing title in Pennsylvania and New York, and Ike Williams, the Trenton boy who boasts 39 consecutive ring triumphs, appeared headed for the action stage today.

Promoter Herman Taylor announced last night that Williams would meet the winner of the Cleo Shans-Ellis Phillips match at the arena Nov. 22, and the winner of that one will meet Montgomery at Convention Hall early in January.

Those who saw Williams hand Johnny Hutchinson a terrific shellacking here Monday night were unanimously of the opinion that the loser of the Shans-Phillips set to would be the luckier individual, and there wasn't much doubt about who would get the shot at the champion.

The day after Williams' sensational victory, Taylor announced he had signed Williams to a five-year contract for exclusive use of his talents, and inasmuch as he already has a similar claim on Montgomery's services, he can't lose.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—(P)—Cpl. Billy Conn, now at Jefferson Barracks, stepped two rounds each with a pair of fellow soldier-boxers last night and showed he retains the timing, footwork and left hook that made him a leading contender for the heavyweight crown. His opponents were Pvt. George Reck, 200-pound Chicagoan, and Pvt. Jim Ritchie, St. Louis 1940 national golden gloves champion.

SUNOCO

A SUPER AVIATION FUEL CONCENTRATE

50% more powerful than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel

One reason for Allied mastery of the skies is the superiority of the fighting fuel that powers our planes.

Millions of gallons are being made every week by Sunoco. This huge quantity and the high quality of our output are made possible largely by Dynafuel, an exclusive development of Sunoco engineers and chemists.

50% More Power than U. S. Standard 100-Octane Test Fuel

Sunoco Dynafuel is more than a gasoline; it's a super aviation fuel concentrate which tests 50% higher in power than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel! That is because Dynafuel contains a larger percentage of certain ingredients which have extraordinary power-producing qualities.

Increases Quality and Quantity

Dynafuel is never used undiluted, but is blended with gasolines produced by other methods, in order to step up their quality.

The Dynafuel Process also increases quantity—because it utilizes even those portions of the crude which formerly went only into low-grade fuels.

A Triumph of Private Initiative

Dynafuel was developed by Sunoco without government aid or subsidy. The company risked its own capital, its own credit, in order to pay the huge costs of building the plants for its production.

It is through such free play of private initiative that all American progress has been achieved.

Opens Up a New Future for Motorists

Dynafuel is not now available for civilians. Every drop is reserved for military needs. But just imagine what this super fuel will mean to future motor car development! The same processes and equipment which have contributed so importantly to the war may well revolutionize post-war travel, both on the highways and skyways of America.

COUNTERSTROKE IN SOLOMONS IS CRUSHED

U.S. Marines Aided By Reinforcements Repulse Japanese

Rear Admiral Robert B. Carney Reports That the Bougainville Operations Have Been Successful Beyond Fondest Expectations

LARGE NUMBER OF ENEMY INVADERS ARE SLAIN

Southwest Pacific Allied Headquarters, Nov. 11.—(P)—Powerful reinforcements of regular U. S. Army troops, landed without loss from warship-guarded transports, fought today alongside the spearhead of marines on Bougainville against badly-decimated Japanese.

The tide of jungle battle—a welter of tanks, mortars and camouflaged men contending in the roughest type of terrain—swung definitely toward the invaders of that last

NAZIS BATTLE DESPERATELY TO HOLD LINE

Americans Smash Forward Against German Counter-Thrusts to Storm Two Mountain Bases

TWO PORTS WRECKED

Allied Headquarters, Algiers, Nov. 11.—(P)—Skilled American mountain fighters of the Fifth Army stormed up the heights and drove the enemy from two mountain bases, including Mount Rotondo, northwest of Mignano where the main inland road to Rome passes through the heavily fortified line that Nazi soldiers have been ordered to hold until New Year's, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Americans smashed forward against German counterthrusts to the peak of Mount Rotondo overlooking the broad valley leading to Cassino, eight miles north of Mignano. Meanwhile, an air force statement disclosed that the Germans already were blasting and wrecking ships and port facilities at both the west and east coast ports of Leghorn and Pescara, either in preparation for evacuation of those places or in fear of their seizure by Allied amphibious forces.

Simultaneously, the Eighth Army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, fighting through snowstorms in the Apennines, advanced five miles and captured Roniero, 10 miles northwest of Isernia and five miles south of Castel Di Sangro on an important trans-peninsular highway.

Radio France at Algiers said in a broadcast that Cassino, eight miles north of Mignano on the main inland road to Rome, had been encircled by Allied forces during the past 24 hours.

In the ground fighting, forward elements of the Eighth Army crossed the Sangro river and won new positions on both sides of the river near the Adriatic coast. The Fifth Army captured important heights in the west.

Both armies battled in extremely bad weather against increasing stiffening German opposition, the communiqué said.

Heavy bombers again attacked the ballbearing works at Villa Perosa, near Turin in northern Italy, bombed only the previous day.

Long range bombers also flew to the Alps to attack a railway bridge and yards at Bolzano, on the railway to Brenner Pass.

Allied Air Forces Blast Axis Centers

London, Nov. 11.—(P)—Powerful Allied air forces in Britain and the Mediterranean theater struck with their combined weights at Germany's vulnerable rail routes unrelenting into northern Italy through both the Brenner Pass from Austria and the McEnis tunnel from France.

The RAF's heavy formations of our engine raiders last night struck a concentrated blow at the Alpine region, at the northern end of the Mt. Cenis Alpine tunnel, one of the world's longest. Good weather favored the operation.

American Flying Fortresses from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command rained explosives yesterday on the freight yards, locomotive sheds and numerous other installations at Bolzano in the Alps on the route through Brenner Pass.

All the RAF's planes returned safely from Modane at the end of the seven and a half mile long tunnel. This was the second attack in light weeks on Modane by British-based air forces.

LIVELY DEBATE IN PROSPECT ON TAX ISSUE

CIO and Seven Other Organizations Demand Drastic Changes in Proposed Revenue Bill

PROPOSALS OUTLINED

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—Prospects of lively house floor debate on wartime taxes were intensified today as the CIO and seven other organizations demanded drastic changes in the $2,250,000,000 revenue bill framed by the ways and means committee.

In a message to members of congress, the organizations said the committee bill "does not tax adequately high personal income, the unparalleled corporate profits and the large inheritances."

Specific proposals were made by CIO President Philip Murray and representatives of the National Farmers Union, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, National Women's Trade Union League of America, League of Women Shoppers, National Lawyers Guild and Consumers Union.

They included: Increased taxes on personal incomes above $3,000, a $25,000 ceiling on wartime income, after taxes, a boost in the corporate income rate from 40 to at least 50 percent.

Elimination of the income levies on low income substituted by the committee for the victory tax.

Higher personal exemptions, elimination of the option to compute excess corporation profits on the average earnings method.

Mandatory joint returns by husband and wife and taxation of government securities.

Increased rates and lowered exemptions for estates and gifts.

Rest Is Ordered For Overworked Congress

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—Dr. George W. Calver prescribed today a long period of rest and relaxation for what he called an "overworked, nervous and underpaid congress."

If he had his way, the capitol physician said, he'd order a recess until the first of the year, to "let members go home for a needed respite."

"Most people don't realize it but the average senator or congressman has the toughest job of them all," Dr. Calver who has looked after congressional health for 15 years, told a reporter.

Herbert D. Harris Delivers Inspiring Address Before Crowd of 200 at the Library Theatre

RITUAL BY OFFICERS

Memories of the Armistice signed 25 years ago today were recalled vividly to mind in an address given at the community Armistice Day services at Warren's Library Theatre at 11 o'clock this morning.

The speaker was Herbert D. Harris, his audience some 200 members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and their friends. On the stage, patriotically decorated with flags of the two organizations, were members of the High School band under direction of Harry Summers.

Officers of the two Posts conducted the ritual in memory of the day which means so much to veterans of World War I, with invocation by William Duncan, chaplain of the American Legion.

POSITION CLEARED UP

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—Labor was warned today that the War Labor Board (WLB) still stands by the Little Steel formula, believes that it cannot discard it, and wouldn't discard it if it could.

This notice came from William H. Davis, chairman of the WLB, and apparently it was intended to clear up the board's position in view of the recent wage hike allowed the coal miners.

I was directed specifically at the CIO's United Steel Workers who want to abolish the so-called formula which in the interest of anti-inflation permits wage increases only up to 15 percent of late 1941 levels.

The WLB chairman said the average American worker had received more than the 15 percent increase over his straight time hourly earnings of January, 1941, but that some groups of white collar workers had not received the 15 percent allowed by the Little Steel formula. He said the board cannot do anything for those people as individuals, but if they applied as groups their cases would be handled.

Celebrations Abandoned for Tasks at Home and Abroad

Formal celebrations of Armistice Day were abandoned for grimmer tasks at home and abroad today as the anniversary of the end of the World War was dimmed by the urgent need of getting on with the job of winning a far greater struggle.

For American fighting men it was a day of steady slugging at the enemy. For Americans at home it was, by government request, a day of uninterrupted industrial production.

King George VI of Britain sounded the keynote for the United Nations when he declared it was extra effort that counted.

The Algiers radio urged workers in France to strike from the historic hour of 11 a. m. until noon in the factories where they are forced to turn out war goods for their conquerors.

In Washington, President Roosevelt placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in traditional ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, but government offices, in contrast to the days of peace, ordered a full working day.

The capital also paid tribute to the memory of the president during the first World War—Woodrow Wilson—in services at the Washington Cathedral.

This Armistice Day finds some 10,000,000 Americans under arms in an army and navy that still is expanding. They are on duty in virtually every continent and sea around the world.

In contrast, on Armistice Day, 1918, 4,000,000 had been mobilized—and half were in Europe.

The intoxicating news of peace that came on November 11, 1918, stilled the guns of a conflict that brought death to 8,538,000 men and wounded 21,219,000. Casualties for this world conflict will not be known exactly until after the new Armistice Day, but some estimates place the total already at 25,000,000.

President Makes Report On Lend-Lease Plan In Reverse

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—Congress received from President Roosevelt today a report that the British commonwealth, through last June, had contributed $1,174,900,000 "to the defense of the United States" through lend-lease in reverse.

The help from the empire, in reciprocity for upwards of $5,500,000,000 in lend-lease supplies from the United States, covered such varied items as corn-on-the-cob and socks, plane repair shops and boxing gloves.

Moscow, it came from the British Isles, whose total was $871,000,000. Airports, barracks, hospitals and similar facilities for American air and land forces accounted for $371,000,000 of Britain's share, goods and services for $331,000,000 and shipping for $169,000,000.

Australia helped out to a total of $196,000,000. New Zealand provided $51,000,000 in reverse lend-lease and India $56,900,000. Canada, never has received lend-lease assistance from this country, pay cash for all war supplies obtained here.

The analysis of reverse lend-lease, Mr. Roosevelt said, "emphasizes the contribution which the British commonwealth has made to the defense of the United States" while taking its place on the battlefronts.

The figures represent an incomplete accounting.

Legion Officer Talks At Arlington

Arlington, Va., Nov. 11.—(P)—Standing by the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Natil al Commander Warren H. A. Thorton of the American Legion urged the nation today to hold back the forces of aggression in the future by brandishing a big stick.

"The Legion urges that the American people determine to carry full insurance against the future war by being ready at all times to counter any possible threat," Atherton asserted in an Armistice Day speech at ceremonies attended by President Roosevelt in the Arlington National cemetery, resting place of warrior dead.

"This can be done only if our young men are given military training as part of their education, and only if there is always on hand the tools with which that training can be used to discourage those who might wish to make war."

Two Americans Slated For Key Posts In U. N. R. R. A. Council

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 11.—(P)—Two Americans, Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Former Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York, today were slated to be named to the two most important posts of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

The nominating committee last night selected Acheson for the post of permanent chairman of the UNRRA council and indications were that Lehman would be elected permanent director general.

The council meets today to fill the two jobs and to adopt rules of procedure.

Meanwhile, the committee on agenda approved a long list of subjects to be discussed by the council. Among them were:

The scope of UNRRA's activities, the council's relations with governments and inter-governmental agencies, finance policies, procedures for ascertaining and meeting deficits in supplies, distribution of relief, health and medical care, and policies for assistance to "displaced persons," such as exiles, prisoners and refugees.

RED FORCES DRIVE AHEAD IN UKRAINE

SNOWS HAMPER DRIVE

London, Nov. 11.—(P)—Russian forces slogging through the wet snows of the western Ukraine toward Poland and Rumania were "pushing forward with far superior forces," the German communiqué said today.

Berlin broadcasts pictured the whole Russian front from the invested Crimea to the frozen fields around Nevel ablaze with heavy Soviet offensives.

A violent tank battle was reported near the White Russian rail center of Gomel, where Berlin said the Russian attacked "with numerous rifle divisions, masses of tanks and planes" in an attempt to break a narrow sector of the front along the Sozh river, tributary of the Dniester. The Germans said they destroyed 217 tanks.

Violent Russian attacks in force also were reported by Berlin north of the Dnieper bend iron center of Krivoriog, northwest of Chernigov above Kiev, and northwest of Smolensk. By German account, the Russian firmly held the initiative in all these engagements but the Nazis insisted they had repelled all the thrusts. The Germans said they were counter-attacking successfully southwest of Kiev.

Flagged by rain, snow and fog the approaching Russian winter, and reeling under the blows of the Russian forces, the Nazis were abandoning huge stores of food and war material in their flight, a soviet communiqué declared. The bulletin said that the Russians are fanning out on a 70-mile arc from Kiev, in its possession since last Saturday.

South of Kiev, Red Army columns were beyond Volodymyr, captured yesterday, and were less than 20 miles northeast of the rail city of Belyayev Tserkov, Moscow. (Turn to Page Nine)

WAVE ENSIGN BRIDE OF LT. CMDR. ESTES

Willow Grove, Nov. 11.—(P)—Lt. Cmdr. Carl L. Estes and his bride, the former Margaret Virginia McLeod, a WAVE ensign, were on an aerial wedding trip to Mineola, Tex., today following their wedding last night at Willow Grove Naval Air Station, believed to be the first in which two navy officers were married by a navy officer at a navy base.

Cmdr. Estes, Texas oilman and publisher and adviser to former Governor Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania, is the public relations officer at the station. His wife, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. McLeod of Morris Plains, N. J., has been his assistant. The ceremony was performed by Rear Admiral J. Duncan MacNair, U. S. N., retired.

EGG PRODUCTION UP

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—(P)—A 12 per cent jump in egg production last month over October of 1942 was reported today by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture which said 151,000,000 eggs were marketed in October, 1943, to set a new record. The department's crop reporting service said production of all feed grains except buckwheat was lower this year than last.

STATE DOGS IN SERVICE

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—(P)—Almost 1,500 Pennsylvania dog owners have bid their pets a fond farewell and sent them off for combat and guard duty with the armed forces. Dr. H. C. Kutz, of the bureau of animal husbandry in the Department of Agriculture, said today at least two Pennsylvania dogs have given their lives in the service.

Thieves Busy At Cottages In Forest Co.

Officers have been investigating robberies in Forest county during the past couple of weeks, but as yet no arrests have been made. Last Friday night the Kunselman Garage, on Elm street, Tionesta, was broken into and recapped tires, change from the cash register and a quantity of gasoline coupons were taken. No clues were left and the police have been baffled.

Reports have also been received that the raids on cottages in the Tionesta section have again commenced. A cottage of John Herron, Allegheny county politician, at Clarington on the Clarion river was raided. The thieves evidently had a truck as they took along a mattress, a wicker chair, canned goods and other articles. The cottage was a fine one and was well and comfortably equipped.

Sheriff Bruce Hagerty, of Tionesta, has investigated aided by state police, but no arrests have been made. Some clues have been unearthed in the cottage robbery.

COFFEE STAINS? WE 101 ASK YOUR GROCER

Joe Warren Sees Christmas Cheer At Low Ebb This Year

Old Joe Warren hitched up his chair to the box of sawdust and ejaculated: "Well, didja ever think you would ever live to see the whiskey all drunk up? I never did. Back in the days when every farmer had a still, raised a crop of rye and made his own we had some pretty fair drinkin' liquor. One or two swigs of that would make a fellow fight and sing and when you took a snort you took it outta the tin dipper and wiped your mouth with the back of your hand. The next morning you didn't wake up with a headache, inflammation of the bowels and a tin ear. In the old war when we blazed h—l out of the Johnny Bulls we gave the boys a snort or two and just turned them loose and let the old opadeldock do the rest. It did."

"And I see they are going to ration liquor. That should solve the problem for the bootleggers. They have sort of been on the anxious seat for a time wondering if they should really get out the stills, the mash barrels and go to work. Guess this news today will sort of give them the inspiration to start makin' up a batch or two for the holidays."

"For weeks past I have felt sorry for the clerks in the liquor stores. Everybody sort of felt they were to blame for the shortage. Many a bird with a bit of foldin' money and a thirst accused the clerks of playin' favorites and holding back the best stuff for their friends. The boys couldn't help themselves. There was just so much stuff there and when it was gone the pinocchio game started."

"There should be plenty of rum coming along with a goodly mess of gin. The rum comes from the West Indies and if you remember rightly Uncle Sammy sort of subsidized the rum in Haiti and if you don't get as many colasses cookies as you once did just blame it on the rum. Rum is made from molasses and you just can't have cookies and rum too. Ang gin? Gosh the folks in Mexico and Porto Rica are busy as bees making gin. Lot o' quantity and darned little quality I say in that stuff. But it won't be long until the bath tubs are working again. Why I'm predictin' there won't be a ring left on a bath tub in the country in a few months. All off with home made gin."

"We're gonna get a fifth and a pint of liquor for the holidays but we will be able to get some rum and gin I'll betcha. So our Thomas and Jeremiah will come through just as good as usual I'm thinkin'. Rum and coke have been a happy combination for months passed and a lot of folks have begun to like it. It packs more wallop than 'pistol packin' mama' and when she gets a few snorts of that she just won't lay that pistol down."

So that is the outlook for rationing. News from Harrisburg is that next Monday the rationing will begin and this afternoon Fred Gelder will break the news of just how it's all going to operate. With no whiskey made for over a year the outlook for hilarity is slim.

You May Never Have To Take Another Laxative

Most constipated people might be as regular as clockwork—if they would only quit worrying—stop being nervous—take more exercise—watch their diet—and get up mornings an hour or so earlier to give bowels time to act. But who can or wants to do all that?

So—the next best thing is to keep the bowels working as regularly and comfortably as we can—and that's where good old Espalids come in. Why? Because you may take Espalids at night and expect results in the morning when you get up without waiting around—because they do not leave the bowels so violently as to leave you feeling weak and wretched.

AND because they help give the grand, comfortable, satisfying type of movement that makes the entire sour—and what sour, constipated person could ask for more! Get Espalids at your druggist today and take as directed. 25¢.

G-GIRL★

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

Chapter 22
THE War Workers' clubhouse proved to be a godsend to War Commission employee 16,984, alias Sally Thayer. Georgia Hammond made good her threat and talked Sally into a spot on the committee which meant little glory and plenty of hard work. But it was just the right prescription for a girl with a broken heart.

In place of cocktails and soft lights and good dance music, the setting for Sally's evenings now was the clubhouse kitchen, where she turned out mountains of sandwiches and washed an endless succession of dirty dishes. Sally figured if the Senator's wife could do it, so could she. She went back to her regular schedule at Emergency Hospital, too. She'd felt guilty about the way she'd let the work there lapse after she had met Ted. She had never given the hospital a second thought if she could see Ted on those evenings when she had signed up for duty. But now, with a tremendous rush of conscience, she went faithfully back to work. The floor nurse raised her eyebrows when she reappeared one day in late July. "That's what they all do," she said sardonically. "I suppose next you'll leave for your summer vacation. Nice work, if you can get it."

Sally hadn't given vacations a thought. This was wartime, and as far as she was concerned—and she was sure, Langhorne too—the office workers ought to be able to take it if the soldiers could.

BUT in spite of the work, and the heavy schedule that Sally laid out for herself, there was one bad hour every day when Sally found it hard to put Ted completely out of her mind. That was the time when her work at the office was over for the day. Try as she would not to think about him, she'd remember his smile, the firm clasp of his hand as they walked slowly through the crowded streets, the tender, teasing tone of his voice when he'd say, "Doing anything tonight, lady?" What Ted thought, what he liked, what Sally thought he would like her to be like, had filled her mind so completely that sometimes she would forget she would never see him again. Then when she remembered that Ted could now be nothing more than a memory, the ache in her heart would be almost unendurable. But as the summer days moved along slowly on a wave of blistering heat unbroken even by a thunder shower, the time eventually came when Sally could think of Ted without a simultaneous sharp thrust of pain. At first she used to dream wild, impossible dreams at night in which a reformed but still charming Ted begged her to forgive him. Then even her mind was too tired out to weave those nightly fantasies, and Sally slept peacefully once more.

But the battle to forget Ted left its mark on her. She was more quiet than she used to be. Some of the spontaneity that Mr. Chase had noted, that set Sally apart from the group, had gone.

SOMETIMES she wished desperately she could tell Peter what had happened. Perhaps this time he wouldn't have been a sympathetic listener, but he had been so understanding and helpful on other occasions that Sally felt it would have been an immense relief to pour out the whole sad story. But nobody with any grain of pride could call up a man who hadn't called her and say, "Look, I'm not in love any more. Wouldn't you like to take me out?"

Fate could have been helpful and pushed Peter in her path again. But fate wasn't doing Sally any good these days, evidently having decided she'd had more than her share of luck, and now it was time someone else got a break. Sally never saw Peter at the hospital. Finally she got up nerve enough to ask the floor nurse casually what had happened to him.

"Oh, he's our fair-haired boy right now. The hospital lent him to the Navy to do some special work on blood plasma. He's been all over the country visiting Navy hospitals. But he's due back in September—unless the Navy wants to keep him."

Sally was so surprised she could only gasp "Oh!" The nurse stared at her. "Don't tell me you have a personal interest in his career!"

Sally hastened to set her straight. "Oh heavens, no. But I understood the Army had rejected him for service, so I'm surprised to hear about this Navy job."

The nurse still eyed her skeptically. "He's in a special category on this. Limited service in the medical corps. I guess the doctor has what it takes. I'll never forget that bright-eyed little number he operated on for appendicitis. She came out of the ether yelling 'Oh Peter darling, where are you!' Dr. Craig swore he didn't even know her, but she certainly had her eye on him."

Sally was annoyed. What gossip places hospitals were. An attractive man didn't have a chance. The walls were buzzing with some brand of story, real or fictitious, all the time. She said severely, "Dr. Craig seems to be able to take care of himself very well."

COMPREHENSION dawned in the nurse's eyes. "Oh-oh, I remember now. You and Dr. Craig had your pictures in the paper, didn't you, after that accident. I'd forgotten it was you. Say, those pictures certainly gave the Nurse's Aide program a boost, believe it or not. Why that day the training supervisor had called all day long for volunteers who wanted to sign up right off. But they all asked if they could be assigned to Emergency, so the supervisor caught on. I could disillusion them fast. Lot of good it's done me to assist Dr. Craig. I put in all last summer up there in that suffocating operating room, but I'll bet you he doesn't even know my name. Of course in your case," the nurse raised her eyebrows knowingly, "it might be different."

Sally refused to rise for the bait. "I imagine he is very popular. These men with a sarcastic comeback always are for some reason." The telephone buzzed, and Sally walked away while the nurse answered it, grateful for the interruption. I certainly got myself in deep there, she thought. But in spite of the nurse's curiosity, she was glad to know what had happened to Peter. Without wishing the Navy any bad luck, she hoped he would be back in the hospital.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Today we know that the war which ended 25 years ago is still going on. We can see more clearly than ever, in the perspective that a quarter century lends, that the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, was just that. We can fit together the various eruptions—boundary disputes, revolution, aggression, civil war—that disturbed the uneasy surface of that armistice until, four years ago, the war broke out again with renewed ferocity.

Seen in this perspective, all the tears, the profound relief, the hysterical joy, the prayerful thanksgiving of Nov. 11, 1918, may seem a little pathetic. But they were sincere and admirable then. We went to war in 1917 on a wave of idealism. We fought for slogans and believed in them: a war to end war and a world safe for democracy. The idealism was more than public emotion. It was the policy of our government. Idealism moved a president to try to persuade us into the League of Nations. We did not follow, and the League went on without us—accomplishing many things, failing utterly in the crises.

But we tried to do our best for world peace. We were generous and solicitous. We were kind to our enemies. We were patient with our recent Allies when they called us Uncle Shylock. We called disarmament conferences, and proposed plans outside the League for enduring peace.

This country and its former Allies condemned war as an international policy. The world had learned its lesson in 1914-1918; it knew that war was brutal and unfathomable. France sat behind her mountains and her Maginot Line and England sat behind her Channel, loathing war so much that they would not look while Germany and Italy prepared for it at home, and rehearsed it in Ethiopia and Spain. We sat between our oceans, thinking that if we hated war hard enough, it would not come.

The next Armistice Day will not find us in a 1918 mood. Perhaps we shall be even more truly thankful, but we shall certainly be less emotional. The American mind today is cynical, compared with that of 25 years ago. And that is all to the good. Next Armistice Day we shall know that the present conflict was only a dreadful, bloody, devastating preliminary to another attempt to build a structure for enduring peace.

We are beginning now, with greater realism and greater wisdom, to draw plans for that structure. This time we know that peace cannot be placed within a shrine, but must be guarded by a stout fortress. It must be built to withstand the problems and differences that will strain the present alliance of fighting nations. We know, all of us, that the end of the shooting and bombing will not mean the return of tranquility. Already old quarrels and new disputes are breaking above the surface of the general sea of troubles. And they will not grow less intense when the fighting stops.

Today we possess the knowledge, painfully acquired, of 25 years' short-sightedness and mistakes. It is bitter knowledge. But because we have it, it may be that 25 years after the next Armistice Day we shall have done a better job.

CALL IT OLEO

Whatever decision the House of Representatives may reach in the butter-oleomargarine controversy, there is one aspect of the situation that probably will remain as confused as ever. That is the problem of how to pronounce margarine.

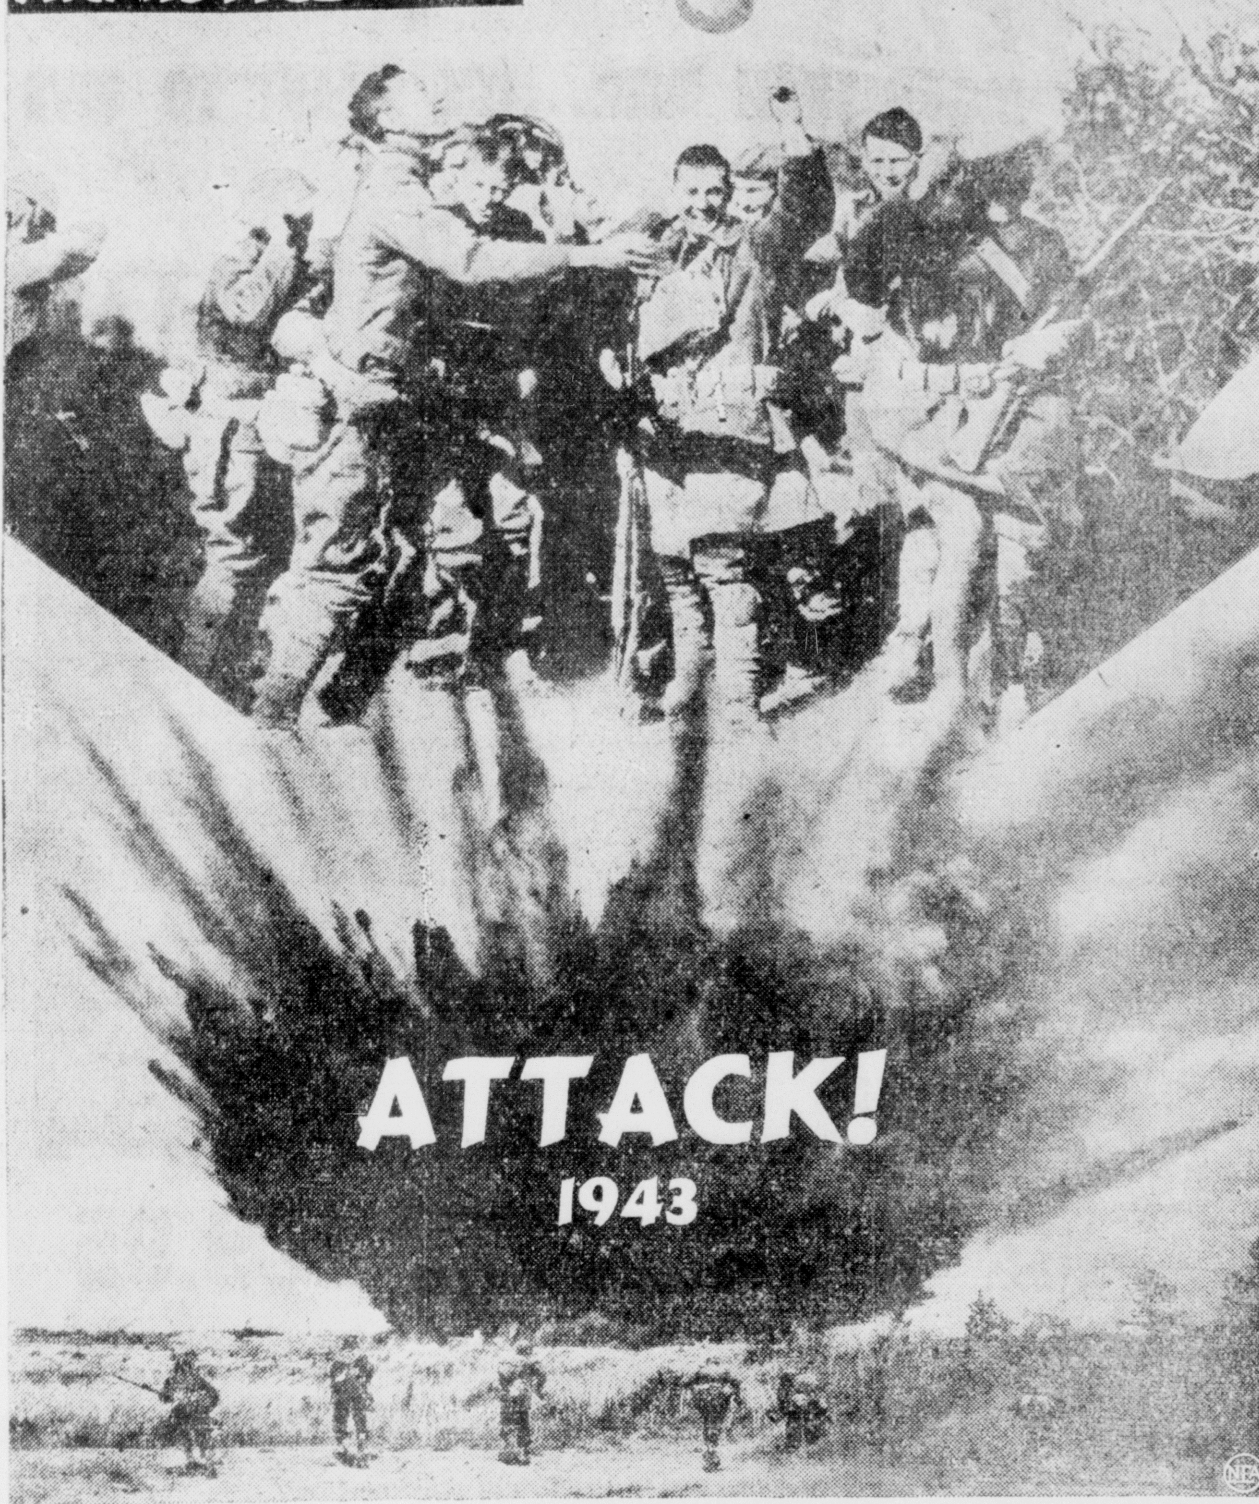

Margarine is derived (that is, the word, not the product) from the Latin margarita, meaning pearl, which in turn stems from the Greek margaron, also meaning pearl. Both root words are pronounced with a hard g, as in Margaret, not a soft one, as in Marjorie. Yet almost all of us pronounce it as if it were spelled with a j.

Dictionaries held out for a long time against public pressure. But the latest edition of the Merriam-Webster only adds to the confusion. It gives the word margarin, which is a concoction of fats and greases, as being pronounced with a hard g. But when it adds a final e to the word, and specifies in the definition that the margarin is the kind you spread on bread, then it gives two choices of pronunciation, with the soft g first.

Our own research, carried out with an expenditure of time all out of proportion to the subject's importance, has discovered no precedent for a soft g preceding an a. Reports from the House butter-margarine committee hearings offer no solution, but do suggest a compromise. It seems that all congressmen and some oleomargarine experts use the popular, or soft g, pronunciation. Purists, especially those from the OPA, bravely give it the hard g as in Margaret.

But the butter men scornfully refer to the rival spread as oleo. In fact, when they want to be particularly derisive, they have been heard to refer to the product as oleo.

ARMISTICE-1918

Across the 25-year span from November, 1918, to November, 1943, the U. S. has seen war, prosperity, depression, the laxity of peacetime, then war again and now attack. Today our observance of Armistice Day is a bitter reminder that the great World War did not end in 1918, and presents an opportunity to resolve that this conflict be brought to a permanent conclusion.

UNKNOWN

By CLASIE MONCURE LYNE

(Inspired twenty years ago on the occasion of the burial of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington Cemetery)

On Armistice Day, next Friday, at Arlington National Cemetery, an unknown soldier will be buried with highest military honors, General Pershing officiating, as typical of the gratitude felt by the country to the memory of all who made the supreme sacrifice. Memory of the unknown heroes was the inspiration of these verses:

Somebody's darling—perhaps was he.
This "unknown" lad who has "Gone With."
Perhaps he prayed at some mother's knee,
Little else matters. He did his best.

"Unk wn"—Name, number, blotted away—
"What" in a name?"—did the bard not say?
Since he the part of Hero did play,
Little else matters. He ended the task.

Young, fearless, yet willing to die—
He went in search of the Holy Grail,
Battled for right with standard high
Little else matters. He did not fail!

Gladly would fathers claim him as son,
Proud of us' scion to share their name,
For Heaven accords him now, "Well done!"
Little else matters—a bauble is faine!

"Unknown"—but not "unhonored" is he,
Just a Private moved down in the rank,
Yet the immortals might envious be,
To witness today th Nation's thanks.

Washington In Wartime

(First Of Two Articles)
By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — When all is said and done, it may be the prisoners of war and particularly the German prisoners of war who will save this country from a more drastic pulpwood shortage.

On the surface, that may seem a far-fetched prediction, but the Forest Service is saying here now that if certain prejudices can be broken down (and it appears that they can) the United States can avoid that margin for error which would deprive us of the minimum of newspaper, magazine, pamphlet and writing paper.

The background of the story must be told first. On July 1, the War Production Board turned over to the Forest Service $1,000,000 with the directive: "Produce more timber or else." It was decided that this development program should be confined to lumber producing states east of the Great Plains. That includes 11 southern states; the Lake States, including Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Missouri as well as those bordering on the Lakes farther west; and the eastern states, which include Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

WITHIN the Forest Service, the program was divided into three parts: logging, milling and labor. In charge of the last was placed a two-listed, experienced, comparatively young forester, Donald M. Rochester, the Forest Service's chief training officer. Don looks like he might have once played halfback for his native Michigan football team, but making holes in yesteryear's Minnesota line would have been child's play to bucking the play they called for him this time.

The lumber industry has been out of labor for months and still is losing steadily. Surveying the whole field, Rochester could find only two possible sources of new labor—a negligible amount which could be imported from the Caribbean and Mexico and that in the Army prison camps. Since the former was almost completely spoken for, Rochester decided to go to work on the prisoners of war.

HE FIRST discovered that by the terms of the Geneva conference, we cannot use prisoners of war in hazardous industries. Logging, he found, was out completely, since it is listed as the most hazardous industry on the books. He did find, however, that prisoners of war could be employed in the cutting of pulpwood forests and in certain non-hazardous mill jobs.

Then he found that the lumber industry, in spite of its manpower shortages, was not inclined to take on prisoner-of-war labor. And although about one-fourth of our 140,000 prisoners of war already in camps in this country are German and Italian farm boys who know how to swing an ax, practically none was experienced in timber cutting or milling.

Rochester was finally told by Col. I. B. Summers, of the provost marshal's general office to use whatever prisoner-of-war labor he could solicit and train. That was enough. As a result, that portion of our pulpwood and non-hazardous mill industry workers who spell the difference between something and nothing probably soon will be hacking away at our pulpwood forests and working around some of the 45,000 sawmills that take care of the defined area.

Warren Boy Transferred By Tex. Company

It will interest many friends in Warren to learn that Fred McCoy, who went to Beacon, N. Y., in the interests of the Texas Company in 1933, has been transferred to the New York office of the same firm. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. McCoy, 416 Hickory street.

Reporting a stag dinner party given for him by fellow-employees, the Beacon News says: "He will be missed in the community as a whole, being an ardent worker in many causes that absorbed his interest. He is a past president of the Beacon Theatre Guild, secretary of the Russian War Relief, member of the Community Chest, Southern Dutchess Country Club and the Southern Dutchess Singers. He was an active worker at St. John's church".

Scout Dispatch Bearers To Distribute Posters Again

Boy Scout Dispatch Bearers will be on the job again Saturday morning to distribute the bi-monthly allotment of posters from the Office of War Information to the stores in Warren Borough.

The posters this time have to do with the Conservation of Public Utilities. There are two different kinds of posters and the merchants will have a choice as to which one they choose.

The copy of the first poster reads "Serve our fighting men—road—Conserve these services—home . . . Electricity—Turn off lights and home appliances when not needed. Communications don't make unnecessary long distance phone calls. Water—Repair leaky faucets—don't let water run needlessly. Transportation—War affix comes first—travel only when you must. Saving these services frees fuel, manpower, material and equipment for War."

The copy of the alternate poster reads "Fuel Fights". Save your car. 1. Keep temperature at 65 F during day—lower at night. 2. Don't heat unused rooms. 3. Keep windows closed. 4. Draw window shades at night. 5. Shut off heat when weather permits. 6. Keep heating plant in top condition. 7. Use less hot water. Saving fuel also saves manpower, material, equipment. Conserve coal, oil, gas—for War.

The Scouts who are distributing the posters on Saturday morning are as follows: Randall White, William Fuellhart, Raymond Streich, Raymond Larson, Richard Swick, James Richards and David Winans.

When the American Army moves it does things in the American way. At Pesto, Italy, 25 miles South of Naples the bulldozers moved in with the first waves of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark's invading Fifth Army. Here is shown one of them building a road right down to the landing beach. The War Bonds you buy are helping build that road that is leading to Berlin and Tokio.

Mohr Heads Seal Drive In This County

Homer M. Mohr has again been appointed chairman of the Christmas Seal campaign of the Warren County Tuberculosis Society, according to announcement made today by H. M. Miller, president.
In accepting the appointment,
Mr. Mohr stated that "during the last year the program of the Warren County Tuberculosis Society has been greatly expanded to meet the requirements of a wartime anti-tuberculosis campaign. While war has always increased tuberculosis, we still have hopes through our intensified campaign that no consequential or lasting rise will occur in this country."

"The Warren County Tuberculosis Society has the biggest job in its history in 1944 and can do it only if the seal sale is a success, since this sale brings in the only funds of the society."

Girl Scouts of the Warren
County Council have again volunteered to assist in preparing the Seal Sale letters which will be sent out Thanksgiving week.

Any other organization wishing to volunteer its services is asked to get in touch with Mr. Mohr by calling 48.

Irish-Wildcat Game Billed As Duel Between Star Passers

By BUCKY O'CONNOR

Chicago, Nov. 11.—(P)—That fellow on the spot is Otto Graham, 190 pound halfback of the Northwestern Wildcats, who is nearing the close of a brilliant three-year career as one of the greatest passers in Western Conference history.

Otto and his mates tangle with the nation's No. 1 touchdown machine, Notre Dame, next Saturday at Evanston. He's on the spot because the clash, 23rd in a series dating back to 1889, is being billed as a passing duel between him and Johnny Lujack, the freshman sensation who stepped right into Angelo Bertelli's shoes and found a perfect fit.

Comparatively speaking, Graham's effort will be pretty much a solo effort, while the Notre Dame youngster will have a heap of help.

Frank Leahy's 18-year-old quarterback find will have a supporting cast which has rolled up a gain of 3,284 yards in its seven consecutive triumphs, topping the nation with an average of 479.1 yards per contest. In their march toward the national championship the Irish have piled up 287 points to their opponents' 31.

Only Bill Daley of Michigan has scored on the ground against the first string Notre Dame line. He did it once.

With the return of the ailing Julie Rykovich at halfback and last Saturday's unveiling of another frosh star, Bob Kelly, the Irish coast along with the greatest collection of ball carriers in the country.

Top Prices Paid At Auction of Horses

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—(P)—Edna D., a two-minute pacer consigned by Mrs. Francis Dodge Johnson, of Rochester, Mich., topped a list of more than 60 harness racing horses up for sale today at final auctions of the Standard Bred Horse Sale Company.

The chestnut horse is the first pacer of its speed to go on the market in recent years, sale officials said.

Also put on the auction block were seven horses owned by the estate of Homer B. Biery, of Butler, including Stonewall, Direct, holder of the world's four-heat race record on half-mile tracks.

Yesterday, an average price of $1,878 for a consignment from the village farm, of Langhorne, broke all previous records for sale of a single consignment. The previous high was $1,815 paid at Lexington, Ky., earlier this year for 72 yearlings consigned by the Walnut Hall Farm of Lexington.

Three Games Scheduled For the Air Saturday

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

New York, Nov. 11.—(P)—Three games on four networks is the football fare for Saturday as the season draws near the close. Thus two chains, the EFL and MBS, will be doing the same contest, Notre Dame vs. Northwestern at Evanston, Ill.

The other games are divided: CBS Army vs. Sampson Naval Training at West Point and NBC Tulane vs. Georgia Tech at New Orleans.

Sewell Is Rejected For Army Service

Pittsburgh, Nov. 11.—(P)—Rip Sewell, whose parachute pitch won 21 games for the Pittsburgh Pirates this year, was rejected in his final examination for military service yesterday at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Two other outstanding Pirate pitchers, Max Butcher and Johnny Gee, were turned down previously.

But the Bucco management isn't counting chickens yet on its 1944 hurling staff—both Wally Hebert, 35, who has two daughters, and Hank Gornicki, 28, are classified 1-A.

The automotive industry reaches out to 81 states and embraces almost 1000 manufacturing plants engaged in work for war and peace.

Ike and Bob Will Settle Feud Soon

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—(P)—That feud of words between Bob Montgomery, holder of the lightweight boxing title in Pennsylvania and New York, and Ike Williams, the Trenton boy who boasts 39 consecutive ring triumphs, appeared headed for the action stage today.

Promoter Herman Taylor announced last night that Williams would meet the winner of the Cleo Shans-Ellis Phillips match at the arena Nov. 22, and the winner of that one will meet Montgomery at Convention Hall early in January.

Those who saw Williams hand Johnny Hutchinson a terrific shellacking here Monday night were unanimously of the opinion that the loser of the Shans-Phillips set to would be the luckier individual, and there wasn't much doubt about who would get the shot at the champion.

The day after Williams' sensational victory, Taylor announced he had signed Williams to a five-year contract for exclusive use of his talents, and inasmuch as he already has a similar claim on Montgomery's services, he can't lose.

Santa Anna, Calif., Nov. 11.—(P)—Marty Brill, former Notre Dame halfback and coach of Loyola University of Los Angeles is being released from the army air forces as a staff sergeant to accept a commission as first lieutenant in the marine corps.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—(P)—Cpl. Billy Conn, now at Jefferson Barracks, stepped two rounds each with a pair of fellow soldier-boxers last night and showed he retains the timing, footwork and left hook that made him a leading contender for the heavyweight crown. His opponents were Pvt. George Reck, 200-pound Chicagoan and Pvt. Jim Riddle, St. Louis 1940 national golden gloves champion.

SUNOCO

A SUPER AVIATION FUEL CONCENTRATE

50% more powerful than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel

One reason for Allied mastery of the skies is the superiority of the fighting fuel that powers our planes.

Millions of gallons are being made every week by Sunoco. This huge quantity and the high quality of our output are made possible largely by Dynafuel, an exclusive development of Sunoco engineers and chemists.

50% More Power than U. S. Standard 100-Octane Test Fuel

Sunoco Dynafuel is more than a gasoline; it's a super aviation fuel concentrate which tests 50% higher in power than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel! That is because Dynafuel contains a larger percentage of certain ingredients which have extraordinary power-producing qualities.

Increases Quality and Quantity

Dynafuel is never used undiluted, but is blended with gasolines produced by other methods, in order to step up their quality.

The Dynafuel Process also increases quantity—because it utilizes even those portions of the crude which formerly went only into low-grade fuels.

A Triumph of Private Initiative

Dynafuel was developed by Sunoco without government aid or subsidy. The company risked its own capital, its own credit, in order to pay the huge costs of building the plants for its production.

It is through such free play of private initiative that all American progress has been achieved.

Opens Up a New Future for Motorists

Dynafuel is not now available for civilians. Every drop is reserved for military needs. But just imagine what this super fuel will mean to future motor car development! The same processes and equipment which have contributed so importantly to the war may well revolutionize post-war travel, both on the highways and skyways of America.
